

Funeral services

When a loved one dies, our world is turned upside down. Indeed the death of a loved one strikes at the very core of our being. The experience can leave the bereaved feeling disorientated and isolated. As grief takes hold, the family realise they have to find the energy and drive to plan a funeral, often in short supply at this time. Whatever form the service takes it often is used to celebrate and pay tribute to the life of the deceased and the opportunity for the bereaved to express their grief.

It is important that there are people with experience in preparing and leading funerals on hand to walk along side bereaved families to support them through the process.

You don't have to be religious or attend Church to have the help and support of a Christian Minister when preparing and delivering a funeral service at a crematorium or in church.

Hymns, prayers and bible passages can be used effectively alongside poems, secular readings, music and songs to create a personalised tribute.

Christian ministers from our experienced team are happy to help you create a service which reflects the life and belief of the deceased and is meaningful for the bereaved.

Funeral Fees for church services are set annually in January by the Church of England and can be found downloaded here
